HANCOCK AND MRS. BURRATT.

Specials to the Star.
WASHINGTON, NOV. 14.—Rev. The General had great sympathy for the unfortunate lady, and waited until the last moment, hoping for a reprieve.

GHASTLY GALLOWS.

Hilarious Hangmen Hold a Holiday.

Buell, the Brute, Bounced at Cooperstown.

A Double Dangling at Lebanon, Pennsylvania.

Specials to the Star.

COOPERSTOWN, N. Y., Nov. 14.—The Governor having declined to interfere in the case of Myron A. Buell, convicted of the most brutal outrage and murder of Catherine Mary Richards, he will be executed by the Sheriff of this County to-day. The crime for which he suffers, and which he recently confessed in full, is one of the most barbarous on record. The substance of the story is that he worked for two years on the farm of Ex-Supervisor Richards, father of the girl, and that on June 25th, 1878, he met Catherine in the neighborhood of the cow stable, and inducing her to go into the latter, he attempted to commit an assault upon her, and then deliberately killed her.

He then let out of the stable a bull that was stabled there, and laid the corpse of his victim in the place where the bull had stood, thus designing to have it appear that death was caused by the bull. The victim was a robust, handsome girl, about fifteen years old, while Buell is now about twenty-two years old.

As the day of his death approached Buell grew thoughtful and read the Bible almost continually, but the enormity of his crime and the fear of death continued to grow upon him until he almost lost his reason. Latterly he had exhibited the most abject cowardice, and it is feared he will break down when taken to the gallows.

DOUBLE HANGING IN PENNSYLVANIA.

LEBANON, PA., Nov. 14.—The Governor yesterday refused to grant the respite asked for by Charles Drews and Franklin Stichter, the two Raber murderers condemned to be hanged here to-day, and the convicted men at once gave up all hopes. George Zechman, convicted with Drews and Stichter, received a new trial which terminated yesterday in his acquittal.

Drews took an affectionate farewell of his wife and children yesterday, and was very much broken down by his approaching fate. He is a bald-headed old man, and continues to protest his innocence.

Stichter passed yesterday and last night in prayer and was baptized by his spiritual adviser. He seems indifferent to his fate which he confesses he richly deserves.

The gallows is now in position and all preparations have been completed for the execution, which will occur before noon in the presence of only a few spectators.

THE RABER MURDER.

As already reported it is known that Henry Wise, Geo. Zechman, Josiah Hummel, Israel Brandt, Charles Drews and Frank Stichter entered into a conspiracy to insure Raber for $10,000 and then murder him in order to obtain the money. All the details of the horrible affair were arranged at the wayside inn, owned by Brandt, called the St. Joseph's, which is located at Indian town Gap, a small settlement in the Blue Mountains. In his confession Drews says:

"Raber came to my house, and we went off together with Stichter. I was the first, Raber was in the middle with Stichter following. I went over the plank and Raber got on it. Stichter got Raber by the legs, threw him in, and jumped on top of him. Raber fell below the plank. I then went back to the fence. It was first intended to drown Raber in the dam. Brandt had planned that Raber was to go fishing at Kitzmiller's to catch fish for Brandt and wife, and then I was to drown him. We went and Peters went with us. When I saw the dam I could not do it, and said we would return, when Raber replied, 'Yes, it is too cold, anyhow.' I pitied him."

JORDON SHEATS IN GEORGIA.

Specials to the Star.

ATLANTA, GA., Nov. 14.—Advices from Danielsville, Madison County, state that all preparations have again been made for the execution of Jordan Sheats, colored, at that place to-day. Three weeks ago the scaffold was erected to carry out his sentence, but the Governor granted a respite until to-day in order to look into his case.

Sheats had rented part of a farm of Joseph Williams, a farmer, in Madison County, and becoming indebted to the latter concluded to leave. While he was packing up to move Williams and Mr. Ledbetter, one of his white renters, went to Sheats' cabin at night and a contest soon arose among them, during which Ledbetter displayed a shot gun and young Williams a pistol, evidence being contradictory as to who fired the first shot.

Many shots were fired, during which Ledbetter was wounded so that he soon died, and that shot by the evidence was traced to Sheats. Sheats afterwards escaped, but was pursued by a large mob, who fired upon his party, killing his brother and badly wounding Jordan, who was finally captured. He was tried and convicted and sentenced to death October 24th, but was respite until to-day.

LEHIGH VALLEY TROUBLES.

National Associated Press to the Star.

READING, PA., Nov. 14.—The iron works and miners' disagreement with the operators relative to an advance in wages has resulted in a strike. The Stegerville miners have been endeavoring to induce the Lehigh County men to join in a general strike, and have partially succeeded, so that many of the principal works are idle.

Labor agitators from the western part of the State are working among the strikers, and it is possible that a serious war will follow.

SCHEURER SHOT.

Anna Hoff Murders Her Alleged Betrayer.

Terrible Tragedy in Newport To-day.

Awful Revenge of a Woman Wronged.

At an early hour this morning Miss Anna Hoff, a young lady who lives with her parents on the Water Works Road, east of Newport, came to Newport at about daybreak, and calling for her brother, Tony Hoff, asked him to accompany her to the boarding-house of Charles Tellein, at the corner of Orchard and Tibbatts streets. Arriving there at half past six o'clock, she called for Charles Scheurer, a young man boarding there, and when he came down she at once confronted him with the question, "Do you intend to marry me?" As Scheurer hesitated to reply, she repeated her question three times, when he said that as they seemed to want him to marry her so bad, he would not.

Without any further remarks Miss Hoff drew a pistol from beneath her cloak, pointed it at Scheurer and fired, the ball piercing his heart and killing him instantly.

Miss Hoff then deliberately walked to the Police Headquarters and surrendered herself, her brother Tony being arrested in a little while afterward.

Miss Hoff states that on the 21st of last July she and Scheurer were engaged to be married, and that at that time he presented her with an engagement ring and subsequently with a gold watch and chain.

Upon the strength of this promise of marriage she says that Scheurer, on the night of July 26th, accomplished his ruin. Scheurer purchased a saloon at No. 5 Sycamore street, in Cincinnati, and told her that when he had fully established himself there he would marry her. Some months afterward he sold the saloon, and she says that instead of fulfilling his promises to her, he has been squandering the money in drink and otherwise. Tuesday night he called at her home, intoxicated, and when asked by her mother if he intended to marry Anna he replied that he would give his answer next day.

MISS HOFF'S STATEMENT.

A reporter of the Star visited Miss Hoff at the jail this morning and requested a statement as to the cause of the sad affair.

Miss Hoff is a fine-looking young woman, twenty-one years of age the coming February, of medium height, and of rather heavy build. Her hair is dark and her eyes piercing black. She was neatly dressed in a dark suit, and appeared very modest in her demeanor.

She resided with her parents on the Water-works Road, a short distance east of Newport. Mrs. Hoff told her story in a straightforward manner, which is as follows: I first became acquainted with Charles Scheurer about eight months ago, and a few weeks later he gave me a gold breast-pin, and three months later, July 21st, he presented me with the engagement ring, which is of fine gold, set with a diamond, and with the inscription: "From C. S. to A. H., July 21st, 1879." Two months later he gave me a fine gold watch and chain. About six weeks ago he ceased his visits to me only when I would send for him. Failing to call Wednesday, my brother Tony called to see him and begged him to marry his sister and save her and the family from the shame that would follow if he persisted in his refusal. My brother even offered him money to defray the expenses, and after the marriage he might cease to live with her, but he still refused. This almost set me crazy and I did not care what became of me.

This morning I arose about 5 o'clock and awoke my young brother and requested him to accompany me to the city. I took with me a six-shooter that my brother Joseph Hoff (now deceased) presented me with four years ago.

We proceeded to the residence of my brother Tony, on York street, and told him to come with me. He asked me if I had anything, when I exhibited the weapon.

We then proceeded to Teichetel's saloon, leaving my young brother outside. What followed is told above.

The remains of Scheurer were removed about two hours later to the livery-stable of Mat. Betz on Jefferson street, where Drs. Chambers, Thomas and Scholfield, Jr., held a post mortem.

about one inch right of median line, on line of nipple, perforating the cartilage of the fifth rib, passing downward and inwardly to the left, perforating the pericardium, then passing through the right ventricle, lodging in the vertebral column.

Coroner Schofield will hold an inquest to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock. A brother of the deceased, residing at Canton, O., has been dispatched for.

An examination of Scheurer's clothes disclosed the fact that he was not without money, $185 in greenbacks and a check for $50 being found. Public opinion appears divided, a number accusing her of being so hasty, the deceased having just commenced to work yesterday.

PHIL TIEMAN'S WILL.

A Daughter Suing Her Mother.

There seems to be some trouble between Elizabeth H. Tieman, the widow of the late Vine-street billiard-saloon keeper, Phil Tieman, and the daughter, Emma C. Tieman, about the will alleged to have been drawn up by the deceased.

Mrs. Tieman, the widow, on May 24th, this year, filed in the Probate Court a paper purporting to be the last will and testament of her husband, who died on the 17th of May, 1879.

To-day the daughter, Emma C. Tieman, filed in the Court of Common Pleas a petition against her mother, stating that her father died on the 17th of May intestate, leaving no will, and leaving the plaintiff as an only child and his heir and Elizabeth H. Tieman as his widow.

She says that Elizabeth on May 24th produced a paper in the Probate Court alleging the same to be the last will of Phil Tieman, by which Mrs. Tieman was appointed executrix, no bond being required, and that under the will the plaintiff was to be provided for as stated in the will.

The plaintiff further states that her father never made a will; that he never signed one; that he was unsound in mind and incompetent to make a will; thereby inferring that the will left for probate by her mother was a forgery.

The plaintiff therefore asks that on the first trial of the petition the said writing be declared not the will of her father.

The petition was signed by Emma C. Tieman, in New York City, before Spinner C. Duty, Commissioner for the State of Ohio.

In the United States Court this morning John Mahoney, of Oxford, pleaded guilty to the charge of opening a letter and was fined $100 and sentenced to serve a term of thirty days in the Hamilton County Jail, and Henry Archibald, of Lawrence County, pleaded guilty to the charge of purchasing unstamped tobacco and was fined $50.

The Cincinnati Bedstead Company filed its articles of incorporation to-day with County Recorder Frank Bruner. The incorporators are August H. Welmeyer, Edward F. Steinmann, Herman Stockman, Wm. Knochenauer and Louis E. Steinmann. The capital stock of the Association is $40,000 divided into equal shares of $500 each.

John Exterkamp, a dairyman at 157 Brown street, was arrested by Officer Joe Smith this morning and taken to Bremen-street Station-house, on a charge of cruelty to animals. Exterkamp kept nine cows and a number of hogs in a cellar, causing them to become sickly and, in addition, creating a bad stink in the neighborhood. He was released on giving bond.

The County Commissioners were notified this morning that one of the bridges on the Harris Road in Mt. Airy was in a very dangerous condition and that the same would probably have to be replaced by a new structure. The matter was referred to Commissioner Reardon with power to act.

Joseph Weppan, an employe at Louis Cook & Co.'s carriage factory, Cummins-ville, fell to-day from the third story to the ground below, by the breaking of a rope. His left knee was fractured and right ankle broken.

A half-drunk woman named Caroline Mitchell attempted to drown herself Wednesday by jumping into the river at the foot of Vine street, but was rescued by Officers Elder and Crambert.

Mr. James Elgen has been temporarily appointed by the County Commissioners to attend to the ladies' waiting-room in the Court-house.

Mr. Michael Mueller, of the Main street brewery firm of Mueller & Schneider, celebrated his forty-fifth birthday anniversary to-day.

Mr. Charles G. Jenner, Clerk of the County Commissioners, is confined to his home by illness to-day.

A twenty feet high chimney at Heuck's Theater on Vine street was blown down by the strong wind this morning.

N. U. Walker, President of the Western Sewer Pipe Association, is the guest of Mr. J. V. Nicolai.
